INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

FOR administrative reasons it has been decided not to deal with the Registers of the Archdeaconry Court of Surrey (a summary of which is given below) in strict chronological order. While, therefore, it seemed proper to prefix a short note to this part, the present must not be taken as anything more than an interim Introduction. The Editors hope to deal more fully with the questions of Surrey Wills and places of probate in general and the Manuscript remains of the Archdeaconry Court (both from testamentary and non-testamentary standpoints) when this Society attacks, as is intended, the Spage Register.

After the Prerogative Court of Canterbury,[1] the Archdeaconry Court forms the most important source of Surrey Wills. The Registers named, like the present one, after the first testator whose will is copied into them, run from Spage (1484—1489) to Harding (1639—1649): with gaps between 1524 and 1529, 1541 and 1559, 1560 and 1595: after the gap of the Commonwealth period, there are four further volumes, unnamed, running (though again, unfortunately, with gaps between them) from 1660 to 1821. The filed Original Wills which often make good the loss of a Register (and even when the Register has been preserved frequently supply us with Wills which ought to have been registered but were not), extend from 1534 to 1858, with gaps in the years 1573, 1618, and 1650—1659. It will be seen that this Court[2] furnishes an opportunity for plenty of work.

The present work is based upon a manuscript genealogical Calendar, covering much of the above-mentioned material, which was made some years ago for Mr. A. J. Jewers and by him presented to the Society. The Honorary Editor and Secretary are responsible for the form adopted and for seeing the manuscript through the press; but they and the Society are deeply indebted to Miss Ethel Stokes, who not only collated it with the original Registers at Somerset House but also added valuable subject-matter. Mr. Theodore Craib has given much help in reading and correcting proofs.

This number covers rather less than half of the Herringman Register.

[1] Six volumes of Indices Nominum, published in the Index Library, make the Wills of this Court available for the period 1383—1629. For fuller treatment of certain Surrey Wills, see Surrey Archæological Collections, Vols. XXIII and XXIV: cp. Ibid., Vols. I, and X to XIII.

[2] The Editors have been indebted to the kindness of Mr. F. W. X. Fincham, of the Research Department of Somerset House, for information on this subject.
